EDICT GRANTS BIG REFORMS TO CHINAMEN

Chinese Emperor Provides for Constitutional Rule.

ADMITS OWN RESPONSIBILITY

Declares That During Three Years of Reign He Has Endeavored to Conserve Interests of People, but Has Been Hampered by Greed of His Advisers—Fears For Result If Subjects Continue to Follow Lead of Bandits.

able will be abolished and the union of the Chinese and the Manchus which was referred to by the late emperor will be carried out.

"The grievances in the provinces of Hunan and Hupeh, though precipitated by the soldiers, were caused by Jui Cheng. However, I blame myself, because I trusted and appreciated him mistakenly. Now our finances and our diplomacy have reached the lowest apparent level, but I fear that they will fall further still. But if the subjects of the empire do not regard and honor us and are to continue to be misled by bandits and outlaws, then the future of China is beyond the realm even of thought."

OBEY LAW TO LETTER

Portsmouth Saloons Do Good Business on Opening Day.

Portsmouth, O., Oct. 31.—The return of the open saloon in this city passed smoothly and uneventfully. There were no disturbances of any kind. The liquor men adhered strictly to orders issued by the Business Men's league. The saloons, after an absence of three years, were very liberally patronized during the day, but the proprietors voluntarily closed at 6 o'clock. Fourteen licenses were issued and before the week ends the list will reach 40. The saloon men have pledged themselves to run their places in accordance with law. Judge Blair, in a statement, agrees to cooperate with the Business Men's league to keep out the dives.

Editor Capper Rapidly Sinking at Home in Mansfield.

Mansfield, O., Oct. 31.—W. S. Capper, founder and president of the Mansfield News, who was stricken with paralysis about 10 days ago, suffered a relapse and is not expected to live through the day. Mr. Capper has for years been identified with the business interests of Mansfield and is one of the best-known newspaper men in the middle west.

The McNamara Brothers and Los Angeles Courthouse

Photos copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

LIFE in the Los Angeles jail evidently agrees with the two brothers John J. and James B. McNamara, who are there awaiting the outcome of the charges made against them by Detective Burns. This picture, which shows James B., accused of the actual dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building, at the left and his brother, held as accomplice before the fact, at the right, bears testimony to the improvement in health of James especially, who was ill when he was taken from Indianapolis. He is the younger brother, and his regard for and dependence upon the sturdy John J. are as noticeable now as in the days immediately following their arrest. John J. himself, who has for years been the head of the family, is said to worry more about his brother's plight than his own. The building in the foreground of the lower picture is the courthouse in which the trial is held.

Approves Plan To Reorganize Trust

Wickersham, However Ties String to Acceptance.

New York, Oct. 31.—That Attorney General Wickersham apparently approves of the American Tobacco company's dissolution plan as a whole was disclosed in a brief submitted to the United States circuit court at the public hearing, but he argued that the government should reserve to itself the right at any time within five years to apply to the court "for other and further relief," provided the plan adopted has not resulted in "creating a new condition which shall be honestly in harmony with and not repugnant to the law."

Mr. Wickersham does not suggest to the court the method to be employed to carry out this five-year provision, but he does say that any plan of disintegration "must be more or less a matter of conjecture," and that

It is impossible for the court to determine in advance whether a plan which proposes to restore competitive conditions "will really accomplish the purpose intended." He would have the defendants in the case enjoined, pending the five-year term, from acquiring stock in any other of the companies it is proposed to create than the companies in which they are left as stockholders by the plan; but he would not extend this prohibition to stockholders other than the defendants, as the southern attorneys general urged.

Italians Find War Is Not A Snap

Milan, Oct. 31.—There is a belief, which is growing, that Italian losses in the recent fighting at Tripoli have been much greater than have been admitted, and that the government fears to reveal the true situation for fear of causing among the excitable Italians a feeling against the war.

It is stated by the Giornale Italia that 100,000 additional members of the military reserve will be called to the colors. This would not seem to indicate that things are going so well in Tripoli as had been claimed by the adherents of the government.

STUDENTS OF SOUTH ARM FOR REVENGE

Resent Killing of Comrade on College Chapel Steps

MURDERER SPIRITED AWAY

Secretary to President of Colored Institution at Rodney, Miss., Shoots Youth When Hard Pressed in Free-For-All Fight That Followed Animated Discussion—Trustees Request Governor to Send Troops to Disperse Riotous Collegians.

Rodney, Miss., Oct. 31.—Serious trouble has broken out at Alcorn college, a state institution for negroes, following the killing of a student by the president's secretary, and it is feared extreme measures will be necessary to restore order. Advice received here says the whole town is alarmed, that half the negro youths at the college are going armed, and a battle upon the campus is not an improbability.

Joe Alexander was the student slain, and John Reddick is held for the murder. The tragedy took place on the steps of the college chapel. A number of students and instructors made short talks. These quickly passed into personalities. Charges and counter-charges were hurled. A mass of students rushed toward the door. Remarks of a very personal nature passed between Alexander and Reddick and Instructor Harrison Jones was attacked. The melee became general and Reddick is said to have drawn a pistol and fired several shots at Alexander. The young man fell dying, but begged the other students to avenge his death. There were more words and another struggle upon the campus, after which the belligerents, still making threats, withdrew. Reddick has been sent to Port Gibson to the jail there for fear of possible mob violence, and the negro said to have attacked Instructor Jones is in the Claiborne county jail.

The trustees of the school have wired the governor that they cannot maintain order, as the insurrection seems but in its incipency. Many additional deputies have been sworn in to act in case of an emergency.

WRANGLE OVER JURORS

Darrow Threatens Impeachment Proceedings Against Two.

Los Angeles, Oct. 31.—Determined to force Jurors Frampton and Winter from the box without being compelled to waste peremptory challenges, the defense in the McNamara trial renewed its efforts to compel Judge Bordwell to recognize challenges against both because they said they held conscientious scruples against inflicting the death penalty on circumstantial evidence.

Attorney Darrow and associates held a conference and decided that if Bordwell refused to entertain such a challenge they would later try to impeach both men. They have witnesses who will swear that both frequently expressed the opinion that the defendant was guilty.

PRESIDENT TALKS OF NEXT CAMPAIGN

Expresses Hope for Republican Victory At Polls

SAYS PEOPLE KNOW GOOD THING

For That Reason He Predicts That They Will Not Shift Burden of Solving Difficult Problems That Now Confront Country to Shoulders Unfitted to Carry Burden—If Defeated, Will Take Medicine Gracefully and Hope For Speedy Change.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—President Taft, after three days of political conjecture which has been poured out before him at every possible moment during his stay in Chicago, at a luncheon of the Hamilton Republican club spoke of his hopes for Republican victory in 1912.

Said he: "Now we are at—some people think—a crisis in the Republican party with reference to its continuance in the guidance of the nation. I am hopeful that the good people of the country who know a good thing when they see it, have only chastened us a bit in an off year, in order that we may be better hereafter and in order that we should be more careful hereafter, but with no intention of shifting from shoulders that are fitted to bear the burdens of the present problems and carry them to a successful solution, to those which are untried and which have new theories of action that we do not believe in and we do not believe the people believe in."

"However, if so be it that they desire to make a change, we shall loyally support the new government under way, in the hope that it will rebound to the benefit of the country, but with the consolation that if after one trial the people think that they ought to go back to the old party that has served them well, and so well in the progressive days of the nation, they will do so. We can bear that, my friends. That is all."

Will Be Loyal In Support.

"But I am not going to make a speech. I am only going to express to you from the bottom of my heart the pleasure I have had in being in Chicago these three days, and I go away feeling stronger in the Republican faith, stronger in the hope that Republican guidance of governmental affairs may continue and be entrusted to solve the real difficulties that are presented to the republic."

"Now I do not minimize these difficulties, but I believe they are capable of solution. I think that when we measure them with problems that have already been met by the Republican party, beginning in 1861 with that saint, Abraham Lincoln, they are small, and while difficult enough for us, are not problems from which we should run away, but we should grit our teeth and meet them by the path—the only path that the party can safely follow—that of enforcing the law and bringing about a condition in which the law is respected."

Thanksgiving Proclamation of President Taft

CHICAGO, October 30.—President Taft today issued his annual Thanksgiving proclamation calling upon citizens of the United States to celebrate Thursday, the 30th of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer. The proclamation reads as follows:

"The people of this land, having by long sanction and practice set apart toward the close of each passing year a day on which to cease from their labors and assemble for the purpose of giving praise to Him who is the author of the blessings they have enjoyed, it is my duty as Chief Executive to designate at this time the day for the fulfillment of this devout purpose.

"Our country has been signally favored in many ways. The round of seasons has brought rich harvests. Our industries have thriven far beyond our domestic needs, the productions of our labors are daily finding enlarged markets abroad. We have been free from the curses of pestilence, of famine and of war. Our national counsels have furthered the cause of peace in other lands and the spirit of benevolence has brought us into closer touch with other peoples, to the strengthening of the bonds of fellowship and good will that link us to our comrades in the universal brotherhood of nations.

"Strong in the sense of our own right and inspired by a strong sense of the rights of others, we live in peace and harmony with the world. Rich in the priceless possession and abundant resources wherewith the unstinted bounty of God has endowed us, we are unselfishly glad when other peoples pass onward to prosperity and peace. That the great privileges we enjoy may continue, and that each coming year may see our country more firmly established in the regard and esteem of our fellow nations is the prayer that should arise in every thankful heart.

"Wherefore, I, William Howard Taft, President of the United States of America, designate Thursday, the 30th of November next, as a day of Thanksgiving and prayer, and I earnestly call upon my countrymen and upon all that dwell under the flag of our beloved country then to meet in their accustomed place of worship to join in offering praise to Almighty God and devout thanks for the loving mercies He has given to us.

"In witness thereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Chicago, this 30th day of October, in the year of Our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and eleven and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and thirty-sixth.

"By the President,

P. C. KNOX, Secretary of State."

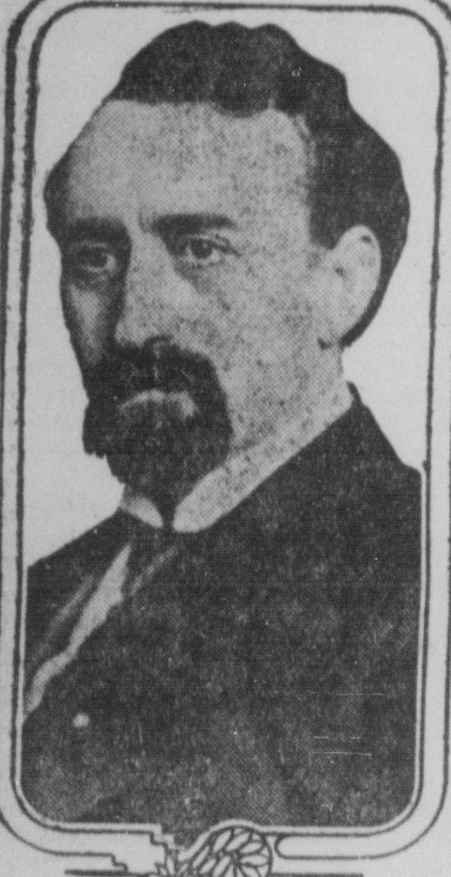

New Movement Gains Ground at Rapid Rate

Columbus Will Entertain Religious Gathering Nov. 14 and 15.

MANY NOTABLES ON PROGRAM

Object of Men and Religion Forward Movement is Idea of Training Men and Boys For Service In All Lines of Work, Including Boys' Work, Bible Study, Social Service, Missions and Evangelism — Institutes Will Furnish Trained Workers.

A convention of the "Men and Religion Forward Movement" will be held in Columbus Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 14 and 15. To this convention all of the 34 counties of the Columbus district are invited to send delegates. The convention will be held in connection with the Columbus eight-day campaign. Monday evening, Nov. 13, the campaign and convention will open with a dinner in Memorial hall. Fred B. Smith, the national campaign leader, will make the principle address. Rev. Isaac J. Lansing, the Social service expert, will be present, and make an address. During the evening the other campaign experts will arrive fresh from the campaign of Kansas City and will be heard. The list includes John Alexander, head of the Boy Scout movement; J. A. Whitmore of New York; W. R. Lane of London, England, a remarkable evangelist; Chas. R. of the International Sunday school force, as the Bible study expert; Rev. J. E. Crowther, field secretary of the Missionary Education Movement, as expert on missions. All of these men will be speakers in the convention and leaders of the training institutes that are a part of the campaign plan. Delegates to the "Men and Religion Forward Movement" convention will be welcome from Church Brotherhoods, Sunday School Bible Classes of men or older boys, individual churches, Young Men's Christian Associations or Men's Clubs or Mission organizations. Co-operating movements in the Columbus district have been organized in Newark, Mt. Gilead, Lancaster, Athens, Cambridge, Caldwell, Chillicothe, Gallon, Ironton, Jackson, Logan, Gallipolis, Coshocton, Delaware, Circleville, Portsmouth, Zanesville, McConelsville, McArthur, Pomeroy, Marietta, Mt. Vernon, New Lexington, New Philadelphia, Marion and Crestline. These organizations will carry "the movement" into their entire counties.

Fifteen hundred plates will be laid for the convention dinner of Monday evening and it is likely that every one will be occupied and a demand for more.

The heart of this new M. and R. movement is the idea of training men and boys for service on all the lines of the plan. Boys' Work, Bible Study, Social Service, Missions and Evangelism. Institutes for instruction in methods and principles for work in all five lines will furnish the churches a corps of trained and earnest workers that will make their work more effective than ever. Nov. 13 to 20 is the date of the eight-day campaign in Columbus.

For Better Church Work.

Training for better Church and Social Service work through the institutes of the campaigns and convention, union in service of all denominations and by men interested in the five lines of betterment, enthusiasm that comes from facing the facts as to the present day life of men and boys and trying to meet the needs in a sensible and Christian way. No proselyting. A balanced scheme of Church work and the finest of plans for tying to the individual Church all the results of the effort are things that characterize the Men and Religion Movement.

First Novel By Hugh C. Weir

Hugh C. Weir, journalist and story writer, who is now recuperating from an attack of brain fever at the home of his father-in-law, Dr. E. C. Hamilton, had a new book published last week, a boy's story of adventure, with the scene laid at the Panama Canal. It is called "With the Flag in Panama," and is the first of a series for boys, "American Industries" series. Mr. Weir's journalistic experiences in Panama together with his wonderful imagination enable him to recount most entertainingly.

The publishers are the W. A. Wilde Co. of Boston, Mass.

Mr. Weir's first novel, "The Chronicles of Madelyn Mack" will be published shortly by the L. C. Page Co., of Boston.

Advance criticism says of this novel: "Clever in plot and effective in style, the author has seized on some of the most sensational features of modern life and the reader who has a grain of fancy or imagination may be defied to lay this book down once he has begun it till the last word is reached."

The year book assigned Ireland as the country for October study. Mrs. Jennie Bailey had an excellent paper on "Irish Leaven in American Progress."

In comparing the races and genius of America to Joseph's coat of many colors, Mrs. Bailey cited as standing out most graphically the 4 millions emigrants from Ireland—a people crushed by politics and intolerance, but with stout hearts and tempers, which make light of danger and discomfort and brew the Irish humor.

Members of Quinn's chapel, A. M. E. church, of Chillicothe, have not recovered from a shock they received Sunday immediately following a liberal contribution of $16 to their new pastor, a Rev. Davis, who received the money and forthwith announced his resignation to take effect at once.

Davis is from the Bermuda Islands, and it is claimed that his wife was not satisfied with Chillicothe, so after delivering one sermon and receiving the collection, Rev. Davis exploded the bomb.

Making Preparations For Numbering Houses Philadelphia System

In compliance with the resolution passed by council ordering a renumbering of the entire city under the "Philadelphia system", secretary of the service director, Forrest Anders, communicated with the authorities of Philadelphia in an effort to ascertain exactly what was meant by the "Philadelphia system", so that no mistake would be made, and so that the numbering might last for all time even after the city extends its boundaries.

Within the next day or two an engineer will be hired to make a plat so that every property owner may know his correct number, and number it accordingly. The order of council is compulsory, so that no one can ignore the numbering order.

The communication received in answer to the second one sent to the mayor of Philadelphia, reads:

Office of the Mayor, Philadelphia, October 27, 1911. Mr. Forrest Anders, Washington C. H., O.

Dear Sir.—His Honor, Mayor Rayburn, directs me to acknowledge receipt of your communication of October 21st, requesting information concerning the numbering system in Philadelphia, and to inform you that all streets are numbered west from the Delaware River, in numerical order, the odd numbers on one side of the street, and the even on the other. The north and south streets are called 1st, 2nd, 3rd, etc., the numbers of each block, between the 1st and 2nd, for instance, running 100 to 134 (depending upon the number of houses) and from 101 to 133 as the case may be, and then beginning 200 and 201 on the other side of 2nd street. Of the north and south streets, the number in each block run from 100 to 200 (following the same system which I have outlined for the numbering of the streets running east and west) north and south of Market street, which is the numerical dividing line of the city the odd numbers on the east side and the even numbers on the west side.

Trusting that I have made this matter clear, I am, Yours very truly, WM. A. GLEAZE, Secretary to the Mayor.

TWENTY-ONE AUTOS HERE CHICAGO MOTOR CLUB

Took Dinner at the Cherry Hotel and Left for Chillicothe

BIG OLDSMOBILE IS DISABLED

Laid Out Here for Repairs and Chauffeur Badly Hurt at the Edge of the City.

Twenty-one automobiles taking part in the Chicago Motor Club Reliability tour, passed through this city Tuesday, stopping at the Cherry hotel where the sixty members of the touring party took dinner.

The fleet of cars arrived in this city about 10:30, and left at 12 noon, for Chillicothe, and from thence to Columbus, where they will spend the night.

The cars left Chicago at 6:00 Friday morning, and are standing up under the strain in excellent condition. The big Oldsmobile was the only one to give any trouble, and when the machines arrived in this city it was found necessary to repair the gasoline tank on the Oldsmobile, which was leaking. This is the longest stop made by any machine.

The cars were lined up along the street in front of the Cherry Hotel, and attracted hundreds of visitors, who looked over the machines while they remained in the city. The cars taking part in the tour numbered 17, and four official cars accompanied the tourists.

The only accident of note occurred just as the Halliday car was entering the city, when Observer Reilly was thrown from the machine and alighted upon his head and shoulders, cutting his face in a shocking manner. The machine skidded in making a turn, and Reilly's escape from death was miraculous.

The cars taking part in the contest consisted of nine touring cars and eight roadsters. They arrived in this city over the Jamestown pike, and departed on the Chillicothe pike, the Pilot car, a Halladay, taking the lead, fully one hour ahead of the others, which left at intervals of one minute, and which maintain a speed of 20 to 30 miles per hour.

The tourists will return to Chicago Friday night, after having covered 1328 miles. Among the party were some of Chicago's most enthusiastic automobilists, who were greatly pleased with the tour so far, and who will endeavor to have the route traversed, improved so that it may become a regular tour for automobile enthusiasts.

Some Sensational Rumors Over the Sale of Meat In Selden Neighborhood

Reports of a more or less sensational nature regarding the butchering of a heifer which had died from clover-bloat, and the distribution of the dressed meat among the farmers in the Selden neighborhood, has caused more or less comment in that locality.

The reports varied greatly, and were to the effect that Mr. Clint Butters, a prominent farmer of the Rattlesnake road, had lost a heifer from clover-bloat, had been assisted by Wm. Rowe in butchering the animal, and that the meat was sold among the neighbors. One report was that the meat was far from being fit for use.

To ascertain the exact situation, Mr. Butters was called by phone, and stated that the animal had taken sick with clover bloat, and that he telephoned for a veterinarian from this city who left at once, but before he arrived the heifer, which was in good condition with the exception of the bloat, dropped dead, and was bled by Mr. Butters at once.

Mr. Butters stated that when the veterinarian arrived a short time later and saw the animal, he informed him that since the animal had been bled and nothing was wrong with it except clover-bloat, that the meat was just as good as any killed and butchered regularly.

Mr. Butters and Rowe dressed the carcass and disposed of a portion of the meat among the neighbors, some of whom were much incensed when they learned that the heifer had not been slaughtered in the regular manner. Out of this a number of stories have grown, but the facts are as above stated as far as could be ascertained.

WHY.

Within the last week three out of four counties voting on county local option swung back into the wet column, and by decisive majorities too, after red-hot campaigns.

Why this reversal of form upon the part of the voters in these counties?

That question may be and is answered in several different ways usually in a way satisfactory to the man to whom the query is propounded.

There can, of course, be no positive answer given for this rather startling change in sentiment. Any one of the many reasons which are assigned would be sufficient or all of the reasons assigned may have combined to influence the voters.

Again one reason may have appealed to one class and another to another, and so on, many reasons operating on many voters.

Less than ten years ago the people of Ohio were aroused at the prominent part liquor dealers were taking in Ohio politics, and the influence they were exerting on both of the political parties and they rose up in their wrath and drove the saloons out of business in a great majority of the counties of the state. Subsequently to that the forces which brought about the downfall of the saloon became active in the politics of both parties and by many it is claimed that the voters resented this assumption of authority on the part of the dry forces.

Some of the leaders of the dry movement attribute the disasters to their cause as the result of over confidence and failure to follow up the victories won a few short years ago. The claim being that when victories were won the enthusiasm died out and important follow-up work was neglected.

Others attribute the results to a lack of law enforcement in many localities and a feeling of disgust held by the people of every community which had voted dry and yet the trafficking in intoxicating liquors was permitted by the officials.

The voters turned on prohibition, which did not prohibit and went back to the old regime, choosing the open and taxed saloon to the untaxed and lawless bootlegger with all the ills which that class bring.

The last mentioned reason seems to be the one most generally given by both wets and dries alike.

The advocates of the dries claim that the most effective argument, as well as the one most resorted to, by the wets in the campaign just closed, was that the laws preventing the sales of liquor were useless, because they were not and could not be enforced.

Any one of the reasons assigned would be sufficient to have turned the tide of votes if those views were generally entertained by the voters of the district.

Certain it is that some powerful magnate has drawn the people of those counties which have voted away from the channel in which they were traveling only a few short years ago.

The campaign just closed proves conclusively that the dry forces cannot, however, remain passive, and cannot deviate from the course marked out with the inception of this last movement, without losing ground dearly won.

Why did Lawrence, Scioto and Athens counties vote wet is a question which will be answered by every man according to his wishes and he can not be disputed by positive proof no matter what the answer may be.

Home and School Must Co-operate to Produce Better Pupils

By THOMAS STOCKHAM BAKER, Philadelphia Educator

THE time will come when the RELATIONS between the schools and the homes will be MUCH CLOSER than they are at the present time. While public school men are working on new courses of study, new methods of teaching, new systems of supervision, it would be well to pause and ask whether the teachers and supervisors and superintendents are not NEGLECTING or underestimating an ally which might help APPRECIABLY in their plans for the improvement of their pupils.

In casting about to find an explanation for the INEFFICIENCY OF THE SCHOOLS very little has been said of the inefficiency of the homes and the inefficiency of the parents who fail to CO-OPERATE with the schools.

ONLY A PART OF THE STUDENT'S WORK IS DONE IN SCHOOL, SO THAT A GOOD SHARE (AND IN SOME RESPECTS THE MORE IMPORTANT SHARE) OF THE SUPERVISING MUST BE DONE AT HOME.

Many parents have very pronounced ideas about what their boys should study, and at the beginning of the school year they devote not a little thought to the question of their course of study. When the boy is once started on his way, however, they dismiss the matter, and they are at a loss to explain the BOY'S FAILURE.

The teachers are blamed, the methods used in the schools are blamed, whereas the chief fault may lie in the homes.

THE CRUCIBLE OF LIFE.

Sunshine and shadow, blue sky and gray,
Laughter and tears as we tread on our way;
Hearts that are heavy, then hearts that are light;
Eyes that are misty and eyes that are bright;
Losses and gains in the heart of the strife,
Each in proportion to round out this life.

Into the crucible stirred by the years
Go all our hopes and misgivings and fears,
Glad days and sad days, our pleasures and pains,
Worries and comforts, our losses and gains,

Out of the crucible shall there not come
Joy undimmed when we pour off the scum?
Out of our sadness and anguish and woe,
Out of the travail and burdens we know,
Out of the shadow that darkens the way,
Out of the failure that tries us today
Have you a doubt that contentment will come
When you've purified life and discarded the scum?

Tinctured with sorrow and flavored with sighs,
Moistened with tears that have flown from your eyes;
Perfumed with sweetness of loves that have died,
Leavened with failure, with grief sanctified,
Sacred and sweet is the joy that must come
From the furnace of life when you've poured off the scum.

Mustard's Quick Relief Without the Blister!

You remember the good old-fashioned mustard plaster.

Your mother and your grandmother used to apply it whenever you had a cold, an ache or a pain.

It burned like sixty, but it surely did the work.

Here is the old family remedy, greatly improved by science and put in Twentieth Century form—

THE QUICK AND BLESSED RELIEF WITHOUT THE BLISTER OF THE MUSTARD, OR THE BOTHER AND MESSINESS OF THE PLASTER.

MUSTEROLE is a clean, white ointment, made with the oil of mustard. For MUSTEROLE, the oil of the highest grade of mustard is refined until it is as pure as human skill can make it.

You simply rub it on the spot where the pain is—rub it on briskly—and the pain is gone!

Not a blister is left even on tender skin! Instead it has a delicious, comforting effect.

You don't have to spread MUSTEROLE on a cloth. Just apply it with the finger tips.

You don't have to bind on a cloth. MUSTEROLE is so penetrating that it goes right through the pores at once.

And there is nothing like MUSTEROLE for Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Tonsillitis, Croup, Stiff Neck, Asthma, Neuralgia, Headache, Congestion, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Pains and Aches of the Back or Joints, Sprains, Sore Muscles, Bruises, Chills, Frosted Feet, Colds of the Chest (it prevents Pneumonia).

MUSTEROLE is for sale by leading druggists everywhere. Accept no substitute.

Many of these display the MUSTEROLE sign (shown below) in their windows.

MUSTEROLE comes in jars of two sizes, 25c and 50c.

If your druggist cannot supply you, send 25c and we will send you a jar postage prepaid.

GRAY HAIRS MAKES YOU LOOK OLD

A Simple Remedy Brings Back the Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

How often one hears the expression, "She is gray and beginning to look old." It is true that gray hair usually denotes age and is always associated with age. You never hear one referred to as having gray hair and looking young.

The hair is generally the index of age. If your hair is gray, you can't blame your friends for referring to you as looking old. You can't retain a youthful appearance if you allow your hair to grow gray. Many persons of middle age jeopardize their future simply by allowing the gray hair to become manifest. If your hair has become faded or gray, try Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation which a chemist by the name of Wyeth devised a few years ago. It is simple, inexpensive and practical, and will banish the gray hairs in a few days. It is also guaranteed to remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

It is a pleasant dressing for the hair, and after using it a few days itching and dryness of the scalp entirely disappear.

Don't neglect your hair. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur today, and you will be surprised at the quick results.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special agent, Brown's Drug Store.

Negro Boy Not to Hang.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 31.—Because of his youth, Earl Gilchrist, a negro, declared by his parents to be 15 years of age, will not be hanged, as a jury decreed and the supreme court affirmed, but will instead serve 15 years in the penitentiary. Governor Donaghey announced commutation of the sentence.

Fowler Breaks Record.

Maricopa, Ariz., Oct. 31.—Aviator Robert G. Fowler during his flight broke the American record for sustained flight when he remained aloft 4 hours and 20 minutes and flew 165 miles without a stop, from Yuma to Maricopa. During Fowler's flight he passed over the camps of Indians from Mexico, who had traveled 50 miles afoot to get a glimpse of his aeroplane.

a living without working too hard. They didn't have to pay much rent. Hillard, the owner, depended on the income from the clay-pit. Hillard was well off and had big ranches and vineyards down on the flat of the valley. The brickyard paid ten cents a cubic yard for the clay. As for the rest of the ranch, the land was good in patches, where it was cleared, like the vegetable garden and the vineyard, but the rest of it was too much up-and-down. "You're not a farmer," Daylight said.

The young man laughed and shook his head.

"No, I'm a telegraph operator. But the wife and I decided to take a two-years' vacation, and here we are. But the time's about up. I'm going back into the office this fall after I get the grapes off."

As Daylight listened, there came to him a sudden envy of this young fellow living right in the midst of all this which Daylight had traveled through the last few hours.

"What in thunder are you going back to the telegraph office for?" he demanded.

The young man smiled with a certain wistfulness.

"Because we can't get ahead here," (he hesitated an instant), "and because there are added expenses coming. The rent, small as it is, counts; and besides, I'm not strong enough to effectually farm the place. If I owned it, or if I were a real husky like you, I'd ask nothing better. Nor would the wife." Again the wistful smile hovered on his face. "You see, we're country born, and after bucking with cities for a few years, we kind of feel we like the country best. We've planned to get ahead, though, and then some day we'll buy a patch of land and stay with it."

Daylight could not persuade himself to keep to the traveled roads that day, and another cut across country to Glen Ellen brought him upon a canyon that so blocked his way that he was glad to follow a friendly cow-path. This led him to a small frame cabin. The doors and windows were open, and a cat was nursing a litter of kittens in the doorway, but no one seemed at home. He descended the trail that evidently crossed the canyon. Part way down, he met an old man coming up through the sunset. In his hand he carried a pail of foamy milk. He wore no hat, and in his face, framed with snow-white hair and beard, was the ruddy glow and content of the passing summer day. Daylight thought that he had never seen so contented looking a being.

"How old are you, daddy?" he queried.

"Eighty-four," was the reply. "Yes, sirree, eighty-four, and spryer than most."

"You must a' taken good care of yourself," Daylight suggested.

"I don't know about that. I ain't loafed none. I walked across the plains with an ox team and fit in juns in '51, and I was a family man with seven youngsters. I reckon I was as old then as you are now, or pretty nigh on to it."

"Don't you find it lonely here?"

The old man shifted the pail of milk and reflected.

"That all depends," he said oracularly. "I ain't never been lonely except when the old wife died. Some fellers are lonely in a crowd, and I'm one of them. That's the only time I'm lonely, is when I go to 'Frisco. But I don't go no more, thank you 'most to death. This is good enough for me. I've been right here in this valley since '54—one of the first settlers after the Spaniards."

The old man chuckled, and Daylight rode on, singularly at peace with himself and all the world. It seemed that the old contentment of trail and camp he had known on the Yukon had come back to him. He could not shake from his eyes the picture of the old pioneer coming up the trail through the sunset light. He was certainly going some for eighty-four. The thought of following his example entered Daylight's mind, but the big game of San Francisco vetoed the idea.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Elam Harnish, known all through Alaska as "Burning Daylight," celebrates his 30th birthday with a friendly crowd of miners at the Circle City Tivoli. He is a general favorite, a hero and a pioneer in the new gold fields. The dance leads to heavy gambling in which over $100,000 is staked. Harnish loses his money and his mine but wins the mail contract of the district.

CHAPTER II.—Burning Daylight starts on his trip to deliver the mail with dogs and sleds. He tells his friends that the big Yukon gold strike will soon be on, and he intends to be in it at the start. With Indian attendants and dogs he dips over the bank and down the frozen Yukon and in the gray light is gone.

CHAPTER III.—Harnish makes a sensational rapid run across country with the mail, appears at the Tivoli and there he declares will be worth its weight in gold before the season is over.

CHAPTER IV.—Harnish decides where the gold will be found in the up-river district and buys two tons of flour, which he declares will be worth its weight in gold before the season is over.

CHAPTER V.—When Daylight arrives with his heavy outfit of flour he finds the big flat desolate. A comrade discovers gold and Harnish reaps a rich harvest. He goes to Dawson, begins investing in corner lots and staking other miners and becomes the most prominent figure in the Klondike.

CHAPTER VI.—Harnish makes fortune after fortune. One lucky investment enables him to defeat a great combination of capitalists in a vast mining deal. He determines to return to civilization and gives a farewell celebration to his friends that is remembered as a kind of blaze of glory.

CHAPTER VII.—The papers are full of "The King of the Klondike," and Daylight is feted by the money magnates of the country. They take him into a big copper deal and the Alaskan pioneer finds himself amid the bewildering complications of high finance.

CHAPTER VIII.—Daylight is lured by the moneyed men and finds that he has been led to invest his eleven millions in a manipulated scheme. He goes to meet his disloyal business partners at their offices in New York City.

CHAPTER IX.—Confronting his partners with a revolver in characteristic frontier style, he threatens to kill them if his money is not returned. They are cowed into submission, return their stakings and Harnish goes back to San Francisco with his unimpaired fortune.

CHAPTER X.—Daylight meets his fate in Dede Mason, a pretty stenographer with a crippled brother, whom she cares for. Harnish is much attracted towards her and interested in her family affairs.

An old wood-road led him to a clearing, where a dozen acres of grapes grew on wine-red soil. A cow-path, more trees and thickets, and he dropped down a hillside to the southeast exposure. Here, poised above a big forested canyon, and looking out upon Sonoma Valley, was a small farmhouse. With its barn and outhouses it snuggled into a nook in the hillside, which protected it from the west and north. It was the erosion from this hillside, he judged, that had formed the little level stretch of vegetable garden. The soil was fat and black, and there was water in plenty, for he saw several faucets running wide open. Forgotten was the brickyard. Nobody was at home, but Daylight dismounted and ranged the vegetable garden, eating strawberries and green peas, inspecting the old adobe

Sustain the Mayor's Position

Say the Council Should Act

Before Water Mains and Electric Lights Can Be Placed in New Additions.

THE WATER COMPANY AND GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY

Both Would Decline to Act Unless By Order of Council, Say Superintendent Fisher and Manager Clapp.

Quite a good deal of space has been devoted in the newspapers during the last two weeks to statements pro and con as to the reasons why the water mains have not been extended and new street lights installed in the recently annexed additions to the city.

A great deal of comment has been heard in all sections of the city about the matter and a number of people, especially those residing in the districts affected by the failure to install these improvements according to promises made when the territory was annexed, have been very vehement in placing the responsibility for this failure to live up to promises.

The feeling has become so intense that the subject has been used as political argument by the adherents of Mayor Allen against Council and by the opponents of Mayor Allen against his administration.

The Mayor and Service Director Anders have insisted that they could not procure the installation of the lights and the laying of the water mains until Council had by ordinance or resolution ordered it to be done.

On the other hand the opponents of Mayor Allen have contended that Council need not take any action by resolution or ordinance and that the Mayor was responsible for the failure to put up the lights and lay the water mains. Some of the publications in the partisan press of the city have been very bitter in denouncing the mayor for his failure to furnish the new additions with the long demanded "improvements".

Mayor Allen and City Solicitor Rankin over their own signatures in open letters have given their version of the matter and placed the blame for the city's remissness on Council.

The opponents of the mayor are still insisting that he is responsible for the city's remissness on the contrary notwithstanding.

The Herald has aimed to give the cold facts as they exist in the controversy to the people of Washington, free from argument or misstatement.

HAYS' STUDIO.

Manager Clapp, of the Washington Gas and Electric Company and Superintendent Fisher of The Washington Water company, have given out open letters in which they unhesitatingly announce that the position contended for by the mayor and the service director is the correct one. Both of these men say their company would not act in the matter without a resolution or ordinance of council instructing the service director to proceed with the work.

It is not contended that such a resolution has been passed, but council has insisted that its passage was not necessary.

In this view both Mr. Clapp and Mr. Fisher disagree.

Mr. Clapp's letter is as follows:

Washington C. H., O.
October 30th, 1911.

To whom it may concern:

Complaint has been made that the nine new lights have not been placed in the new additions to this city.

The Electric Light company cannot place these lights, as we understand the law, and the service director of this city cannot order the same placed until action is taken by the city council appropriating the money and ordering the service director to make contracts for placing said lights.

As soon as council passes the necessary resolution and the service director thereafter makes request, we will install the lights.

In a similar case where the council had accepted the report of a committee in Middletown, O., the service director declined to order the lights up until he was authorized by council by resolution to do so.

Council afterwards passed the resolution.

Respectfully,
THE WASHINGTON GAS & ELECTRIC CO.,
By G. N. CLAPP, Manager.

Mr. Fisher's letter is as follows:

Washington C. H., Ohio.
October 31st, 1911.

To whom it may concern:

It has come to our attention that complaint has been made because the Water Company refuses to extend its mains into the new territory, recently annexed to the city.

Our franchise provides, That the Water Co., shall extend and maintain such extension any pipe line or mains whenever the council of said village (now city) of Washington, shall by resolution direct.

Such resolution has not been passed by council.

As soon as same is passed and we receive instructions from the service director to that effect, we will proceed with the work as rapidly as possible.

Very respectfully,
THE WASHINGTON WATER CO.,
By E. P. FISHER, Supt.

In the opinion of the city solicitor and the two gentlemen who head the two companies most concerned, the mayor and the service director are correct in their contentions and the failure of council to pass the necessary resolution or ordinance is the cause of the failure to extend the water mains and install lights in the new addition.

CUPID IS WEAK WHEN POLITICS ARE INVOLVED

Story of a Royal Courtship Published After Many Years.

HEARTS ALWAYS TRUE

Berlin—(Special)—The touching story of the romantic attachment of the Emperor William I for Princess Eliza Radziwill when he was a young man and she a girl, and of the obstacles that arose to prevent their union is related in detail in a book just written by Dr. Bruno Honnig. The stern necessities of politics cast a cloud over these two young lovers and compelled Prince William, as he then was, to desert the girl he loved, to contract a union based on prudence instead of personal inclination.

Toward the end of the eighteenth century, Prussia had absorbed a portion of the ancient kingdom of Poland and was engaged in the difficult task, still only imperfectly accomplished, of assimilating the conquered Poles, who regarded their German masters with repugnance.

The hopes of Prussia in those days were largely centered in Prince Anthony Radziwill, one of the Polish magnates who accepted Prussian supremacy over his native land in a friendly spirit and married Princess Louise, a niece of Frederic the Great, after which he was appointed viceroy of Prussian Poland with his seat of government at Posen. His real home, however, was in Berlin and it was here that his daughter, Princess Eliza, who as Hohenzollern on the maternal side, associated freely with the Prussian royal family, met Prince William, the second son of the reigning King Frederic William III.

Prince William and Princess Eliza grew up from childhood together and it was not until 1820, when he was 23 and she three years younger, that their friendship ripened into love. The first words of love spoken were at a picnic in the forests around Berlin at which Prince Anthony and Princess Radziwill and the King's remaining children, the Crown Prince, Prince Charles and Princess Alexandra, were also present. "Dear, dear Lulu," wrote little Princess Eliza to her friend, Countess Stosch, "how happy, how supremely happy I was out in the woods with William."

During the next two years, the young couple saw one another constantly but a shadow had fallen across their happiness, owing to the degree of difference in their respective ranks, which constituted a bar to their marriage. When Princess Eliza's mother, a Hohenzollern princess, married Prince Radziwill, her inferior in birthright, she descended to his ranks and their children were not royal princes and princesses but merely the descendants of a Polish noble family, with royal blood in their veins. A marriage between Prince William and Princess Eliza would thus have been a morganatic union and the right of their children to inherit the Prussian throne would, according to the "house laws" of the Hohenzollern dynasty, have been open to doubt.

The question was raised whether Princess Eliza could not be raised to the rank of "royal highness" either by the King of Prussia or by the Czar, and the two lovers went through an anxious time, which extended into several years while this matter remained undecided.

There were long periods of separation, due to Prince William's duties in different parts of the country, and after a reunion following one of them, Princess Eliza wrote to her friend: "It was a sad and sorrowful time, but we found consolation in our love. We understand each other perfectly; there is no doubt, no uncertainty. The evening before his departure for Teplitz William spent at our house. We sat in the garden till midnight and we were able to talk alone there without attracting any attention. We talked only as brother and sister but he spoke to me so earnestly, so beautifully, without any hint of selfish love that I could not repress my tears. In this short time he has become dearer to me than ever before and I am determined that whatever may happen I will remain faithful to him and keep the love for him in my heart."

After this the young lovers' hopes again ran high. The question of Princess Eliza's elevation to royal rank was being investigated, and in Berlin an engagement was already spoken of. Then, however, the blow fell. One day the King visited Princess Eliza's family in Silesia. "My Roses trembled beneath me," she wrote to her friend, "as the King approached me, gave me his hand, and embraced me as usual." The day passed, the evening meal was eaten, and still the King spoke no word on the subject which was causing Princess Eliza's heart to beat so painfully beneath her white dress. Finally the King took his departure after kissing Eliza and pressing her hand in silence. As the King left the room, Princess Eliza burst into tears. The Crown Prince and Prince Carl, who were both present, pressed her hand in silent sympathy, and there is no doubt that the whole royal family felt keenly for the young princess.

Then followed three years of total separation. Finally, Prince William, in 1825, found another opportunity to visit his lady love. He was commissioned to accompany a home returning Russian grand ducal pair as far as the border, and his mission accomplished, he hastened headlong to his sweetheart's home in Poland. His first words as he burst impetuously into the room were, "After three years—three years—the proof!"

Then followed a week of unalloyed bliss for the young lovers. For seven days they delighted in each other's company and openly comforted themselves as a betrothed pair. The same year however, which witnessed the high tide of their joy, also saw its ebb. The scheme of elevating Princess Eliza to royal rank was declared impossible, and from the Russian side the suggestion was even put forward of a marriage between Prince William and a Princess of the house of Wiemar. Still, the faith of the young couple in each other appeared unbroken, when in 1826 Prince William again visited his sweetheart while on his way to Russia. "Yesterday" wrote the Princess, "William was here, and we lived short, sweet hours together. Today, there are already many miles between us."

This was in January. In the summer of the same year the final catastrophe occurred which forever dashed the hopes of the young people. Both the prince, and his father the king, wrote to the Radziwill family, "What moments of joy I have lived in these five years despite the bitter hours which they brought me. What is there in life that I have not tasted. It is enough. Now I turn my heart to those from whom it can never be torn away. He says that he has to thank me for the peace of his soul. I feel that I could cry aloud the consolation which this message brings me."

Prince William had been obliged by what he considered his duty to the future of the state to desert the girl of his heart, and in February, 1829, his engagement to Princess Augusta von Wiemar was announced. Yet once more, however, the Prince visited Princess Eliza. Her mother thus described the scene.

"He arrived at 12 o'clock on June 3. I went to meet him. His emotion was so visible and so intense that I, too, lost my self control, and it was with feelings of the greatest distress that I took him to my room where Eliza was waiting. I was sorely afraid of the effect which the meeting would have upon both of them. Yet, as God willed it so it happened. His love strengthened Eliza's heart. She is now convinced that William fulfilled the King's wish out of his strict sense of duty. She is quieter than before and her sorrow has been softened. She knows that it was stern necessity and his father's will which intervened, and not any inconsistency of heart on his part."

Princess Eliza did not live long after the marriage of William to Princess Augusta of Wiemar. One night, as she sat at dinner with the royal pair, she was overtaken by internal hemorrhage and fell into an illness from which she never recovered. She was taken by her family to those same forests where William years ago first declared his love, and there she died.

F. & A. Masons Banquet Monday Night

A hundred and fifty F. & A. masons banqueted royally at the Masonic Temple Monday night.

The occasion was a special meeting called to confer the Master's degree upon Louis Saxton, Walter H. Robinson and John Durant.

The work commenced at four o'clock in the afternoon, continued until the banquet at six o'clock and was concluded in the evening. Worshipful Master W. E. Robinson had the work in charge.

The banquet hour was one of brilliant pleasure, with the more serious side of Masonry temporarily laid aside and wit and humor punctuating fraternal reminiscences. The tables were tastefully decorated in carnations and smilax.

Smith Brothers catered and the elaborate turkey supper, with all manner of delicacies that they served met with the enthusiastic approval of every Mason present.

F. & A. Masons were present from Bloomingburg, New Holland, Mt. Sterling and Jeffersonville.

Try This Experiment On Your Family

Serve Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH instead of coffee for breakfast without calling anyone's attention to it.

Be sure that Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH is made according to directions. Like coffee, you can spoil it. But Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH is just as easy to prepare as coffee. See whether anybody notices the difference—or if your family thinks it is coffee, whether it is better than usual. Many who used to be coffee fiends say they now prefer Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH for its delightful flavor of the finest coffee.

Fitch's Grains of Health

The Coffee Substitute With the Coffee Taste

Here is another interesting experiment:

Pour Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH into one cup, and the drinker's favorite brand of coffee into another.

Trim them exactly alike, and ask the drinker to tell which is which.

He may make a good guess, but it will be only a guess.

Smells Like Good Coffee

Tastes Like Good Coffee

Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH has been substituted for coffee in many families and confirmed drinkers have not known the change. Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH smells like good coffee—tastes like good coffee, but has not one of coffee's bad effects. Caffeine, the part of coffee which causes the headaches and nervousness, has been counteracted in Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH.

Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH is a simple combination of a special high-grade blend of coffee with herbs, roots and vegetables, which make it a positive health benefit.

Drink all the Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH you want. The more the better.

You can serve Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH to the children. It is good for them. No intelligent adviser would ever tell you to serve coffee to children.

Recommended by Physicians

You can serve Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH to the sick. We have testimonials from doctors who use Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH and recommend it.

But don't think we offer you Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH on its remedial merits alone. It is a substitute for coffee for all coffee drinkers. It has the aroma, it has the taste, it has the revivifying effect. It has all the attractions of the real thing, and it's healthified.

Ask Your Grocer

Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH is sold by all leading grocers. The price is 30 cents the pound. It is ground, ready for use. It is just as easy to prepare as coffee; but only half as much of Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH is required as coffee—a teaspoonful to a cup. Therefore it really costs only half as much as good coffee.

If your grocer cannot supply you, write us, mentioning his name, and we will send you a generous sample package of Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH (enough to serve a large family at breakfast) and a booklet telling you all about Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH. Enclose 6 cents in stamps for postage.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Editor Daily Herald.

A few words at this time on a political rumor may not be out of place.

We hear that when the time comes to vote—instead of three candidates for mayor there will only be two. That arrangements are being made to have one "pull off", "quit"—"fixed".

With these rumors not a man, be he even an enemy of the mayor will for one instant think that the present mayor will be the one that will show the white feather. All will give him the credit of being a fighter, and not one that can be bought nor sold.

We all know that when the gong sounds Tuesday, November 7th, that he will be at the post, will fight all day and if defeated will die in the last ditch.

All the world loves a lover, and all the world loves a fighter when that fighter is fighting for good government, enforcement of the laws. He will find fighting with him the men of Washington C. H., who put their city, their children, their homes, above party, above personal preferences, fighting for the man who has made the government of Washington C. H., O., what it is.

They like the other boys, both good fellows, but this is not the time to swap horses when we think of Portsmouth, Ironton, Circleville, Chillicothe, going backwards. We love Washington too much to let her go backward. We will all boost her onward and upward. Get out of the knocker class men of Washington, are you asleep? "Must you be carried to the skies on flowery beds of ease, while others fight to win the prize and sail through bloody seas?"

Is Washington going back to her 22 saloons, her staggering drunkards on her streets; her gambling hells. All the known devices for ruining our boys and girls. Follow Portsmouth, Athens, Ironton, Circleville, Chillicothe, because you won't do your duty as an individual. Wake up before it is too late. And then say I am sorry I forgot my duty to home, children and God; my duty as a man. Won't you help, or will you shirk.

"Build it well whate'er ye do
Build it straight and strong and true.
Build it high and clean and broad,
Build it for the eye of God."
A CITIZEN.

Editor Herald:

Please give me space in your paper as I want people of this city and county to know that Mayor Allen is not as pure a man as he or his friends thinks he is. Over a month ago I served notice on his brother-in-law, the health officer, about a chicken nuisance, when there were about two hundred chickens in a small pen that is close up to a tenement house that I own. My understanding is that the health officer, Dr. Howell came and chatted with the women who own those chickens and returned and gave his report to the balance of the board of health and said everything was clean and nice.

I then reported to Mr. Haynes and he sent me to Dr. Hughey and both of those gentlemen, members of the board of health, said it should be attended to at once, and advised me file an affidavit. I went straight to Mayor Allen's office to file an affidavit, but he was out of town and I had to wait about four days for him to return home. Then when I saw him he asked me if the health officer was notified and I told him that the health officer made a wrong report and that I could prove it. So Mayor Allen told me to go to Mr. Rankin, the city solicitor, and file an affidavit, which I did, and Mr. Rankin came and looked at the hen house and said that it was a real foul place and ought not exist. So I had to swear to the affidavit, and was at Mayor Allen's office a lot of times to find him gone every time. At last I found him in Mr. Whelply's pool room and he refused to come to his office with me, so I signed and swore to the affidavit in the pool room nearly a month ago, and Mayor Allen has refused to give me a hearing ever since. Three families have moved out of this house on account of the nuisance from those chickens, the last family stayed one month. Of course I can't blame them as it is one most foul place in the city. I asked Mayor Allen about giving me a hearing and he said he heard by disinterested parties everything was cleaned up over there and I contended that it was not, and I have plenty of proof to support me.

So Mayor Allen I insist that you give me a hearing and I will prove my case. I demand an immediate trial and so far have been unable to get it.

Try the case Mayor Allen or give the public your reasons for refusing to do so.

Cloud in Court Another Charge

Iler E. Cloud, the B. & O. S. W. operator who worked at this place for a short time several weeks ago, and was later arrested in Mt. Sterling, charged with stealing a razor and pair of shoes, is defendant in a suit in Chillicothe where C. E. Bentz and Alta Harkins brought suit to attach his wages in the hands of the B. & O. S. W. in order to pay a board bill contracted by Cloud.

Judge Goldsberry was in London and tried the case against Cloud in that county, giving him $25 and the costs for stealing the shoes and razor. When he left London and reached Chillicothe to hold court, Cloud's name was on the docket, and being a very unusual name he remembered that it was the same man who had been fined in Madison county for theft.

Cloud was not present, and the case was continued over until later.

Williamsporters Get Into Trouble

"Plumber" Harmount, said to be well known in the Williamsport and New Holland neighborhoods, and who has made his home at the former place, went to Circleville a few days ago and he and his wife stopped at a rooming house in that city.

It is claimed that both of the parties are addicted to the "dope" habit, and that when Harmount stepped out to secure more dope, Hughie Majors put in an appearance and when Harmount returned an altercation took place in which Majors was given a severe beating.

The Harmounts hurriedly left the city for Williamsport, and so far no arrests have been made.

Hallowe'en Revelers Must be Careful

Tonight is Hallowe'en when everything supernatural is supposed to take place, and which is usually celebrated by the youngsters in more or less mischief.

Extra police will be put on duty, and efforts will be made to prevent all lawlessness.

Bridge Still Out Traffic Tied Up

The Caesar's creek bridge or trestle is still out where the big wreck occurred on the C. H. & D. Sunday morning, and although a big gang of men are working night and day in an effort to remove the wreck and reconstruct the big trestle, the work is progressing very slowly, and all efforts to maintain anything like a regular schedule, are fruitless.

The transfer of passengers is still being made, one train meeting the other and backing away. The transfer, owing to the surroundings, is very difficult. The freight is accumulating all along the line, and to eliminate the overcrowding of the division with freight, some of the trains are being detoured.

Basyl Ford, living on Paint street, and for whom a warrant was issued Monday for disturbing the religious services at the Christian Union church Sunday night, has, of his own free will, adopted Number 145 and skipped out, so that he would not be apprehended for his offense.

Ford learned that a warrant had been issued for his arrest, it is claimed, and did not stay to face the music, but hurried away at once, going to Columbus. Efforts were made to apprehend him when the train arrived in Columbus, but word was not dispatched quick enough, and he is now in the "Arch City" and will not return for a time at least. Meanwhile the warrant for his arrest has been filed away with the many others in the mayor's office.

Smith Gets $25 Carried a Gun

Leonard Smith, of this city, was arrested in Chillicothe Sunday, charged with carrying concealed weapons, and Monday morning when he was arraigned in police court he was given a gentle little reminder that he must not repeat the performance. The reminder was in the shape of $25 and the costs.

It seems that Smith had a little trouble and the discovery was made that he had forgotten to leave his gun at home. This was deemed offense enough to "jug" him, and he was dealt with accordingly.

Mayor Allen's Platform

To The Citizens of Washington:

If re-elected to the office of Mayor of this City I will continue in the future, as in the past, to strictly and impartially enforce the law against—

Bootlegging, Gambling,
Immorality, Petty Thieving,
Night Prowling, Window Peeping
Loafing, Vagrancy,

and all other laws on the statute books, showing no partiality to anyone—be he white or black, rich or poor, and no matter what his standing.

The citizens of this city will also be protected against return of large number of "Undesirables" who have been guilty of the above named crimes.

It will be my constant endeavor to, at all times, work for the advancement and best interests of the city and welfare of her citizens.

If this platform meets with your approval your vote will be appreciated.

Respectfully, RELL G. ALLEN.

"HUMPY" SCOTT KILLS MAN

PARTNER OF JUSTICE

IS SHOT BY OFFICERS

Charles Scott, better known as "Humpy" Scott, the man who was with Charles Justice when he shot and killed John Shoop in Green county, is under arrest in Troy for killing a railroad man and injuring another in a fight there a few nights ago.

Scott is from Xenia, and was the principal witness in the case of Ohio against Charles Justice, the man who was electrocuted Thursday night for his crime, and has been in trouble many times. A few weeks ago he was hustled out of Xenia under suspended sentence for carrying concealed weapons.

Scott shot and killed Brakeman C. L. Brown, of Troy, and tried to make his escape, but was pursued by the officers and cornered. Scott had a desperate companion with him, and when they were cornered, opened fire upon the officers. The officers returned the fire and Scott fell to the ground with a bullet hole in his side.

Scott stands an excellent chance of occupying the same chair that his former companion in crime, Chas. Justice occupied.

GOVERNMENT.

"When the lawless get a bad man in office they support him in all the evil that he does; but when the law-abiding get a man in office, too often they are ready to criticise him, and leave him to fight the battles without their active aid. That is the trouble. Good men are divided and bad men are united. If good citizens could only be induced to join hands in patriotic endeavor before the election, and stay joined after the election, the forces of error would be vanquished like evil spirits at dawn of day."—Ex-Governor Folk.

LaFollette Must Fight His Own Battle

Laylin Says Committee Will Not Boost Boom.

Columbus, O., Oct. 31.—The Republican state and county organizations will give no countenance or favor to the LaFollette presidential candidacy in Ohio. This was made clear by Chairman Lewis C. Laylin of the Republican state executive committee. His statement was made on being informed that the Republican committee of Wayne county, Ind., had declined by a vote of 22 to 1 to take charge of the LaFollette meeting to be held in Richmond in December. He was asked as to the probable attitude of Republican committees in Ohio in counties in which Senator Clapp and Senator LaFollette are expected to speak in November and December. He said that since the last Republican state convention endorsed Mr. Taft for the nomination in 1912, Mr. LaFollette is not likely to feel that the party organization should be put in motion in the interest of any other candidate.

AVERTS AWFUL TRAGEDY.

Timely advice given Mrs. C. Wiloughby, of Marengo, Wis. (R. No. 1) prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. Doctors had said her frightful cough was a "consumption" cough and could do little to help her. After many remedies failed, her aunt urged her to take Dr. King's New Discovery. "I have been using it for some time," she wrote "and the awful cough has almost gone. It also saved my little boy when taken with a severe bronchial trouble." This matchless medicine has no equal for throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Blackmer & Tanquary.

Man Hit by Flyer.

Delaware, O., Oct. 31.—Spectators on the Big Four platform at Ashley saw the unusual spectacle of a man who had just been struck by the Big Four flyer arise after the train had passed and wave a mangled arm from which the bone protruded after the flying train. David Cackler was struck by the flyer as he was crossing the track to board the local, but was knocked off in such a way that he rolled under the passenger, which stood on the sidetrack, and so escaped fatal injuries.

Tobacco Growers Organize.

West Union, O., Oct. 31.—Adams county tobacco growers will lead the growers of the white burley district of Kentucky and Ohio in a protest against the plan of reorganization of the American Tobacco company. A. G. Turnpseed of Cincinnati is heading a movement to petition the attorney generals of Ohio and Kentucky to join the attorney generals of other states in the protest.

Must Remain In the Big Penitentiary

Wealthy Farmer Ineligible For Parole, Says Hogan.

Columbus, O., Oct. 31.—Wealthy in his own name and the owner of a large farm in Wayne county, Alfred T. Slutz, serving two and a half years in the penitentiary for assault, will either have to go to work for another man or stay in the prison until Oct. 20, 1912, according to a ruling handed to penitentiary officials by Attorney General Hogan. Slutz completed his parole papers with the exception of the clause which requires a prisoner to have employment papers signed. When he learned that he would have to work for another man if paroled, Slutz had the case placed before the attorney general and asked if his wife couldn't sign the employment papers. Because of the farm being in his name, the case was decided against him. Slutz says he can not work for another man, because his large farm is in need of his supervision.

IS THE WORLD

GROWING BETTER?

Many things go to prove that it is. The way thousands are trying to help others is proof. Among them is Mrs. W. W. Gould, of Pittsfield, N. H. Finding good health by taking Electric Bitters, she now advises other sufferers, everywhere, to take them. "For years I suffered with stomach and kidney trouble," she writes. "Every medicine I used failed till I took Electric Bitters. But this great remedy helped me wonderfully." They'll help any woman. They're the best tonic and finest liver and kidney remedy that's made. Try them. You'll see, 50c at Blackmer & Tanquary.

Stick To Seats Result Of Prank

Students at Ada Smear Molasses All Over Chapel.

Ada, O., Oct. 31.—Molasses—sweet, sticky New Orleans molasses like mother used to spread on your bread when you were knee high—interrupted the course of higher education at Ohio Northern university.

Nearly 1,000 students—men and co-eds—found their seats smeared with the glue-like substance when they went into chapel. Even President Smith's seat behind the pulpit was covered. A half hundred sat down in the mass and then they simply "mucclaged" there until others tore them loose.

President Smith ordered every man student to report at the chapel to take scrubbing brush and bucket and help wash it clean. He also has started an investigation.

Some say it was done to celebrate Saturday's football victory; others say, in retaliation for President Smith having condemned the students' LaFollette club.

Saloons Are Opened.

Athens, O., Oct. 31.—The official count shows that Athens county was carried by the wets by a majority of 1,383. Three years ago it went dry by 1,414. Saloons opened today in Nelsonville, Buchtel and Gouster.

Price of Sugar Cut.

New York, Oct. 31.—All grades of refined sugar were reduced 10 cents on 100 pounds.

Safety Appliance Law Upheld.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The supreme court, in an opinion by Justice Vandeventer, which was unanimously concurred in, upheld the constitutionality of the safety appliance act of March, 1902.

No One Wants Office.

Zanesville, O., Oct. 31.—The post-office at frontport, a town in this county of 400, was closed. Postmaster Joseph Baney refuses to be postmaster any longer and there are no applicants for his position. The mines are running full time and jobs are so plentiful that the postmastership is not attractive.

Dayton, O., Oct. 31.—A man whose name is believed to be William Snodgrass or John Pendergast of Toledo, died from injuries received when he was thrown or fell from a boxcar in which a gang of tramps had built a fire and were making merry. He landed on the rails in front of a switch engine and one of his legs was crushed.

Emma Worth slipped on a Buffalo (N. Y.) street and was instantly killed when the teeth of a sidecomb pierced her skull.

Mary Mannering announces her retirement from the stage to take up model house building.

Hundreds of Georgia peach trees are in bloom and orchardists fear for next year's crop.

At Marshall, Tex., a mob lynched Will Ollie, colored, who was in jail charged with assaulting a white woman.

In order that he might marry the girl of his choice, Archduke Ferdinand Charles, nephew of the emperor of Austria, has renounced his title and is now simply Mr. Burg of Switzerland.

Constantinople, Oct. 31.—There is a report to the effect that the Italian forces at Tripoli have met with a grave disaster. The report says they lost 5,000 killed, besides 7,000 prisoners.

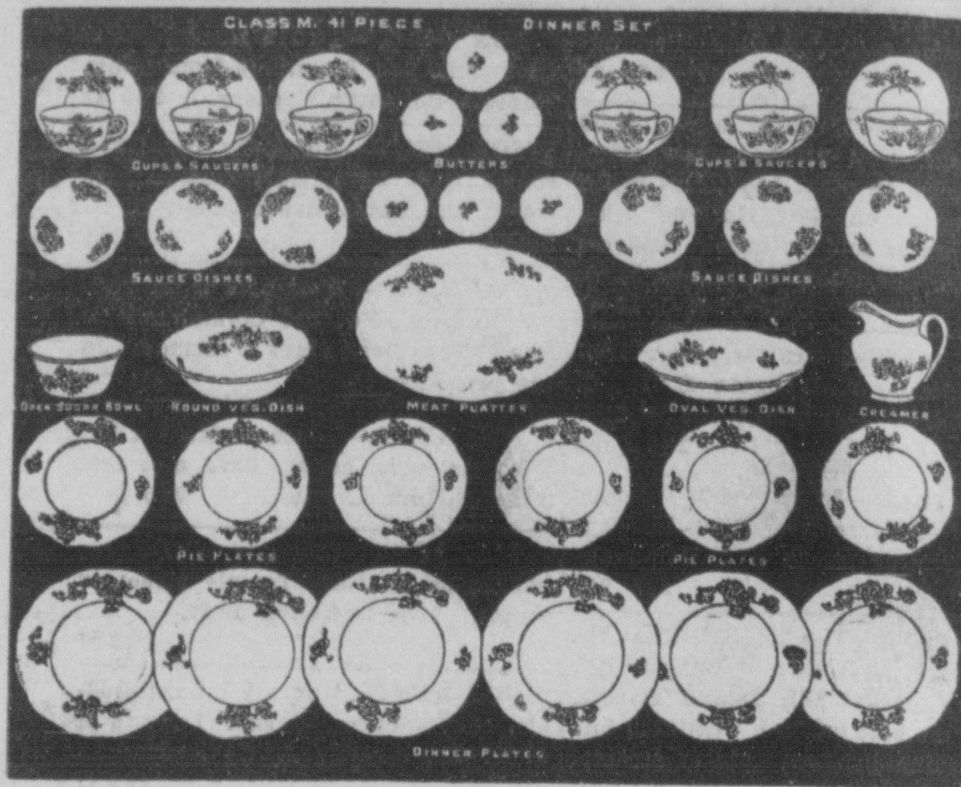

Murder Plot Suspected.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 31.—Circumstances which point strongly to murder surround the finding of the body of Louis J. Dossman, 24 agent and telegraph operator of the Big Four railroad at Fern Bank depot. The torso was cut in twain. Dossman is said to have had $56 of his own money and $80 belonging to the company in his pockets when he left a saloon in Delhi. The money is missing.
